LIONS OBSERVE SCHOOL WEEK

Placerville Revealed As "White Spot" Of Division For P. G. & E. Company

Placerville is "the white spot" of business for the Sacramento division of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

This was indicated Tuesday evening by Division Manager E. W. Florence, who was among a group which came to Placerville from Sacramento to share with the Lions in their annual "School Week" meeting at the high school.

Mr. Florence said collections are best in the Placerville area, he referred to the continuing expansion of electric service in rural areas, and then made reference to the highway development which, in a period of years, will reduce the travel distance between Placerville and the capital to minutes.

Mr. Florence said he likes Placerville and every time he has the opportunity, he pays a visit here. He suggested that Placerville might easily become a home center for persons working in Sacramento who could live in the mountains and spend only a little more time driving to and from their work than they would if they lived in the suburbs of the capital city.

When he retires, he said, he hopes to have a home in Placerville.

The Lions met at 6:30 o'clock in the new cafeteria of the school and were served a well-prepared dinner by the girls of the home-making class, under the supervision of Miss Evelene Olson. The dinner opened with a crab cocktail, then veal birds with dressing; potatoes, buttered peas, vegetable salad with Franch dressing, Parker House rolls, coffee and lemon pie.

Principal B. E. Larson announced a dance number presented under the direction of Miss Mary L. Stewart, by June Fry, Barbara Shore, Barbara Beavers, Patsy Cook, Roberta Melcher and Coralee Butler.

Announcements called attention to the Public School Week programs at the grammar school Thursday afternoon and at the high school on Thursday evening and then the program was turned over to Roy G. Strum, who introduced members of his group, Fred Sprague, James McLure and Mr. Florence, and L. J. Brundige, division sales manager.

Mr. Brundige spoke concerning the selection of personnel in filling jobs which became available and then a motion picture, "The Middleton Family," produced by the Westinghouse Electric Company, was shown.

As the meeting closed, Lion Secretary Arthur Mart announced that

COUGARS BLAST SUTTER CREEK

Complete Schedule By Taking 4 To 1 Victory On Amador County Lot

Coach L. A. Brown's Cougars rounded out their Mother Lode League baseball schedule Tuesday by taking Sutter Creek into camp, 4 to 1.

The game, postponed from the early part of the season because of rain, was played at Sutter Creek and the victory gave the Cougars—all ready league champions—a score of five victories and one defeat in league play.

They are standing by waiting for scheduling of the Mother Lode League Championship in which they meet the winner of the southern division.

Barrett hurled for the Cougars and set the Sutter Creek batsmen down with four hits; one less than his mates were able to gather. However, the Cougar bingles came when they were needed and Cliff Swesey has credit for batting in two runs while Rossi batted in one run.

Swesey hit three for three and handled nine putouts at first base without a bobble to turn in an exceptionally outstanding day's work.

PLACERVILLE MAN PILOTS PLANE WEST FROM N. Y. FACTORY

Although it is more or less common for El Dorado County residents to go to an eastern factory and drive home in a new car, it isn't often that one of us goes east and flies home.

Jack Gianelli has returned from a twelve-day trip to New York by rail, and home by plane, bringing out a new Luscombe monoplane for the San Francisco dealer.

Gianelli made the trip west in forty hours of flying which he completed in five days. The high-light of the trip, he reports, was beating a dust storm into Big Springs, Tex., by five minutes at the end of one day's flying. The storm blew over and he continued his westward flight the next morning.

350,000 VISIT OUTING SHOW

7,000 Pieces Of County Literature Distributed During Six-Day Event

Wallace M. Ripley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was at his desk Wednesday morning following a ten-day visit in Los Angeles during which he was in charge of the county's exhibit at the seventh annual Outing Show, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

El Dorado County participated in the event, held in the patio and courtyard of the auto club headquarters, in co-operation with the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and the Lake Tahoe Sierra Association. The cost to the county was $175.

Mr. Ripley reports total attendance at the show for the six days was 350,000 and that the first day's attendance was 47,000 while on the last day of the show there was an attendance of 80,000.

The single exhibit space through which the three agencies named participated in the show distributed a total of 28,000 pieces of literature of which seven thousand were about El Dorado County.

Mr. Ripley reports that on the basis of his observation during the show, the Los Angeles area is a fertile field for activities intended to acquaint the traveling public of area with the recreation and historic attractions of Lake Tahoe and the Mother Lode.

Among those who participated with Mr. Ripley in the operation of the exhibit were George Kehlet and Fred Kehlet, of Meek's Bay; A. L. Richardson, Sr., and A. L. Richardson, Jr., of Camp Richardson; H. Droste, of Tahoe City; C. O. Valentine, of Lakeside Cabins; Arthur S. Dudley, of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce; Howard Johnston, of Pinecrest; C. F. Edwards, of Edwards Lodge; and R. H. Strosnider, of Tahoe Cedars.

Were You Counted In The Census?

Chamber Of Commerce Volunteers Service To Assist Enumeration

Were you counted in the recent census enumeration?

If not, please communicate immediately with the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce. The telephone number is 471.

Anxious to assist in securing an enumeration for El Dorado County which is as near complete as possible, the Chamber of Commcrce has voluntarily established itself as a headquarters for receiving reports from those whose "noses" were not counted.

"While we have no understanding with the census supervisor at Roseville," said Wallace M. Ripley, secretary of the chamber, "I have noticed that an appeal is being made from the Northern California headquarters at Sacramento that residents who have been missed in the census should communicate with the nearest census office.

"The census office nearest Placerville is at Roseville and so, to save our residents the need for reporting there individually, we offer to accept their messages and report them as a group to the census supervisor.

"Those who have been missed in the enumeration should not delay in reporting the fact, as the census survey has been made and the workers are, even now, engaged in gathering up the loose ends. Anyone who has been missed should report promptly."

AERIAL BATTLE FOR NORWAY

Land Forces Involved In Two Major Campaigns To Win Domination

BERLIN, (UP) — Germans claimed today the capture by battle of the strategic Straits of Steinkjer, seizure of large quantities of booty north of Lillehammer and advances in the Norwegian campaign from Trondheim, Bergen and Stavanger.

NAZI GAINS

STOCKHOLM, (UP) — German forces in Norway were reported here today to have scored a major victory at Steinkjer and driven the British and Norwegian troops out of the town north of Trondheim. A land, air and naval attack figured in the reported victory.

SHARP BATTLE

LONDON, (UP)—A war office communique today said that Allied forces had fought a "sharp" battle with German troops north of the Norwegian port of Trondheim and had "succeeded in re-establishing the situation." The phrase "re-establishing the situation" was not explained.

By UNITED PRESS

German and Allied air fleets fought with increasing power in Scandinavia today in an effort to turn the tide of two major battles for domination of Norway.

But the outcome of these land operations appeared to depend on the results of a tremendous battle being fought in the air, and on the ability of the Allied forces to establish air bases rapidly in Norway. So far, the British have not been able to set up a base from which their swift fighting craft could operate and therefore have been open to constant attack by the German bombing fleets.

203 Killed In Dance Fire

40 Others Badly Hurt As Flames Destroy Negro Social Club

NATCHEZ, Miss., (UP)—Authorities counted 203 known dead today in a fire that swept through the Rhythm Club, Negro dance hall, last night and said that some of the 40 who were seriously injured probably would die.

Coroner R. E. Smith said that many of the Negro patrons of the dance hall, which at one time had been a Negro church, came from Louisiana and it would be days before they could be identified.

"We will just line the bodies up and let their relatives pick them out," he said.

Ten members of the Walter Barnes Orchestra, a 12 piece Negro band from Chicago were burned to death the coroner said.

The nature of the tragedy to this city's 8000 Negroes, who comprise 60 per cent of the population, would be comparable to a disaster in a white community in which its leaders were decimated. Among the dead were a large number of Natchez' comparatively few educated Negroes — physicians, lawyers, social workers, teachers—the leaders of the Negro community.

BERGEN WORRIES BECAUSE THERE IS ONLY ONE CHAS. McCARTHY

The fact that there is only one Charlie McCarthy has Edgar Bergen puzzled.

"What if Charlie were destroyed by fire?" Bergen worried between scenes of Universal's "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," which stars Bergen and McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd and which comes to the Empire Theatre tonight and Thursday.

Bergen revealed that the possibility has had him concerned for years, ever since the death of Charlie's creator, Theodore Mack, Chigago woodcarver who finished the famous white pine personality.

On many occasions Bergen has tried to procure accurate and satisfactory duplicates of Charlie, but with no success.

"I've paid as high as $250 for a carving," Bergen declares." None of them has the McCarthy personality, although, in appearance, few could tell the original from the duplicates!"

McCarthy cost Bergen just $35 when Bergen, then starting out as a ventriloquist, ordered him from Mr. Mack. The idea for Charlie's features came from a Chicago newsboy and Bergen sketched a caricature likeness which Mack followed.

"Gone With The Wind" Profits $4,000,000

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — David O. Selznick, producer of the film, "Gone With the Wind," and Loews Inc., distributors, are making an average of $750,000 a week in profits from the film.

To date the film has grossed $17,000,000. From 50 to 60 per cent of this gross amount was returned to Selznick and Leows from the theaters throughout the country. Total cost of the film was $3,957,000, leaving Selznick and Leows with a total profit to date of approximately $4,000,000.

May 3-5 are the new dates for the Solano county fair at Dixon.

"DETECTIVE MC CARTHY" is here shown with Edgar Bergen and Robert Cummings and Constance Moore in an important scene from "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," which will delight Empire theater patrons tonight and Thursday.

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McLemore

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, (UP) — No matter what advice I offer you directly from Louisville next week, you will probably string along with Colonel Ed Bradley's Bimelich to win the Kentucky Derby.

I'm telling you this before I get there because I know from past experience that Louisville during derby week does things to a man's judgment, to say the least. Many a year I've gone there ready to back the solid horse only to get talked out of it by gentlemen with goatees on their chins, glasses in their hands, and convincing talk of inside information.

I became completely sold on Bimelech when, at Jamaica the other day, I walked into the paddock to get out of the rain and had a talk with Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the the "Mister Fitz" who trains for William Woodward's Belair stud and the Wheatley stables. As the rain beat down and the horses came and went for the first and second races, "Mister Fitz," who is now starting his 55th year on the turf, gave his opinion of the coming Kentucky Derby.

"It'll be Bimelech, and easy," he said, "if the fellow is in shape. And I'm sure he will be. Hurley'll see to that. Right now it looks as if the rest of us will be going to Kentucky just for the ride. No, that's silly, all that talk about Bimelech not being in shape because of the weather. Weather doesn't have anything to do with getting a horse ready for a race. You can ready a horse, regardless of the rain and cold and snow. The only catch is, you don't know how he is going to run. Our only hope in the derby is that Bimelech, even though he be fit as hands can make him, just won't be the horse on May 4 that he was last fall. If he happens to be—well, we'll just be chasing Mr. Bradley's silks all the way around."

That's a pretty compliment for Bimelech, because "Mister Fitz" knows a thing or two about the derby. He has sent three winners to the post at Churchill Downs—Gallant Fox, Omaha and Johnston—and stands second only to the late Derby Dick Thompson, who saddled four winners for Colonel Bradley.

He isn't sure what horses he will ship to Louisville this year. He is working with Asp, Snow Ridge, Fox Flame, Foxleigh and Flarette for Belair. Right now Nenelon and Merry Knight, a pair of 40 to 1 shots in the winter books, are the only ones considered as possible starters. But "Mister Fitz" told me yesterday that he would run at least five of his charges in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica this coming Saturday and that how they fared would decide which ones got a ride to the bluegrass country.

While I was talking to "Mister Fitz" we were joined by Hirsch Jacobs, for several years the leading money winner among the trainers and a chap who knows all there is to know about a race horse from fetlocks to forehead. And guess who he likes for the derby? Bimelech. Jacobs doesn't believe there is any horse in the country who has the class of the Bradley beauty.

"Unless something comes out of the woods, some horse we don't know anything about it'll be Bimelech," Jacobs said. Asked if he thought C. S. Howard's Mioland might prove to be this "dark horse" Jacobs said he didn't know anything about him except what was in the form charts, and while that made him look pretty good, he also said he doubted if the western hope had the speed and power of Bimelech.

So, there you have the opinions of two of the greatest trainers in the country. I have the same information, but I have a sneaking feeling that by next Wednesday night I'll be sitting in the Kentucky Hotel ending up a story with a plea to all of you to forget what I said about Bmelech and take a flyer on a great, new find of mine. Don't you do do it.

The original indictment had demanded $5,548,384 in taxes, interest and penalties for the years 1932-36.

Bruce Kirby, young museum curator who has frequently aided the New York police in solving mysteries, is urgently summoned to his friend Emery Harding's home on Skeleton Island, off the coast of Maine. Arriving there, he is surprised to find an old friend, Jane Hall, girl detective attached to the New York police force. She is there to guard Harding's daughter Audrey, whose life has been threatened. Harding is terrified because he has received a note, signed Yiakut Haki, threatening Audrey unless Harding hands over a ruby in his possession. According to the note, the stone is the Eye of Varanus, stolen from a temple in the East Indies.

CHAPTER III

KIRBY grunted, and gnawed his lips as he studied the ominous note. It was typewritten. Elite size. The letter "a" was consistently out of alignment. The typewriter ribbon had been red.

Kirby studied the ominous note. "Well?" Harding demanded nervously. "What do you make of it?"

"Well?" Harding demanded, nervously clenching his hands. "What do you make of it?"

"This Eye of Varanus," said Kirby. "You do have it?"

"Yes—that is, I have a very remarkable ruby."

"Where did you get it?"

"I bought it," said Harding. "All above board. You know how I go in for rare jewel collecting. Well, this old sea dog on the mainland must have heard about my hobby, for he came over in his yawl one afternoon—"

"Just a second," said Kirby. "By 'old sea dog,' do you mean Albert Santrey?"

"Yes — how did you hear of him?"

"Why, he met Benet and me at the plane when we came in. Rowed us ashore. He said you had asked him to come over to the island."

HARDING nodded. "That's right. He's staying at the servants' quarters with Drumm until I want him."

"But why did you ask him here?"

"Just to have him around in case I decide to question him. I've an idea, Bruce, that he may have something to do with this band of cutthroats who ask for the ruby. You know — sell it to me, then have me give it up through extortion, and the band gives him a rake-off."

"What's the ruby worth?" Kirby asked

"I don't know," said Harding "But it's a gorgeous stone! I've never seen anything like it in my life! I gave Santrey five thousand dollars for it, but I have an idea it may be worth ten times as much."

"You'll show it to me?"

"Later. After dinner. That's why I sent for you. I wanted you to——"

A sharp knock at the door interrupted Harding. He turned and said irascibly, "Come in!"

Ludwig opened the door, and peered in hesitantly.

"What is it?" Harding demanded.

"Drumm, sir. He says it is of the utmost importance, sir. Something dreadful has happened!"

Harding's face went ashen. "Where is he?"

"Downstairs, sir."

Harding turned swiftly to Kirby. "Come along, Bruce!" he said abruptly.

He went out the door with astonishing speed for one of his corpulence. Kirby rose, and followed him to the ground floor.

DRUMM was standing near the front door, twisting a dingy cap in his hands. He was pale and disheveled, and his popping eyes bulged.

"What is it, Drumm?" Harding asked breathlessly.

The man gulped, then said hoarsely, "It's Cap'n Santrey, sir. I jist found 'im down on the beach."

"What's the matter with him?"

"He's—he's dead, sir."

"Dead!"

"Aye, sir." Drumm nodded vigorously. "He wuz stretched out on the sand, sir. His neck is busted!"

A profound silence followed this startling announcement.

Then, someone behind the transfixed group cleared his throat. Kirby glanced quickly around, saw a gaunt, thin-faced man with snow-white hair. He wore black-rimmed pince-nez perched precariously on his thin nose.

"Straater!" said Harding. "You are just the man we need! Come along! There's been an accident down on the beach!"

"An accident?"

"I'm afraid so. . . . Bruce, you remember Dr. Straater, don't you?"

"Of course," said Kirby, shaking hands. "The faithful family medico. I met you last year, Doctor."

"I recall it well," said Straater. "What is all this about an accident? Has someone been hurt?"

"Someone's been killed, sir!" said Drumm.

"Killed?" Straater removed his pince-nez gingerly. "Emery—what is this?"

"I don't know," said Harding. "We'll see. Come along, Drumm and take us to where you found Santrey."

"Aye, sir."

HARDING turned to the butler who had been standing in the background.

"Ludwig—not a word about this to any of the others. If anyone asks for me, say I'll return in a few moments."

The butler nodded.

The four men left the house. Harding, Kirby and Dr. Straater trailing across the green lawn after Drumm who almost ran in his excitement. Kirby realized that the route was merely a retracing of his steps of half an hour previous — leading down toward the spot on the beach where he and Fred Benet had been deposited by Santrey when the rowboat had brought them ashore.

As they reached the end of the lawn and started across the beach, Drumm suddenly stopped and stiffened.

"Gawd!" he muttered, pointing.

"What is it?" Harding said sharply.

"There's—someone . . ." Drumm faltered, "standin' there by the body——"

THIS IS DIFFERENT! A WHIST PARTY GIVEN BY THE MEN

From the time that "Hector was a pup," whist parties have been run by the ladies. If funds had to be raised to send the Town Glee Club to "glee" at the Fair in the next county, the answer was—"give a whist party," and the job of organizing, selling tickets, getting the prizes and providing the "eats" fell upon the ladies—the male of the species sat back twiddling his thumbs and looking superior—it was the male prerogative to supply the "atmosphere" while the ladies did the work.

For over seventy-five years, at least, this thing has been going on. Back in 1864 we read in the records of the Episcopal Church "The 'ladies' of the Episcopal Church will give a party in the Confidence Pavilion." But as a rule parties in those early pioneer days were not confined to a mere evening, for in May of 1865 the "ladies" put on another party that lasted three days. The proceeds netted $1,200 and were devoted to the erection of the Episcopal Church on Coloma Street.

After seventy five years, precedent will be broken—a whist party will be staged by men and the "ladies" will sit back and see how it's done. On Friday evening, April 26th, in the Masonic hall, the whiskers will be short from this hoary tradition, when the vestrymen of the Episcopal Church will sponsor and conduct a whist party in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the establishment of the Episcopal Church.

There will be numerous — and unique—prizes, the grand prize is described as a "honey." The "eats" which will be prepared and served by the men is being kept a dark secret until the last card is played, the committee in charge, however, guarantees a minimum of intestinal disturbance with little tendency to nightmare if due precautions are used. The committee in charge of this tradition-shattering is headed by Fred Spicer, chairman, with Messrs M. T. Kelly, J. G. Leonardi, Bert Pierroz, Clifton Wildman, F. O. Knacke, U. C. Myers, Ed. Barnard, Dr. W. A. Rantz, Silvio Ronzone and Geo. Van Vleck.

DRIVE ON HAY FEVER

BOSTON (UP)—A concentrated effort to rid New England of hay fever is being made by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. The women have adopted a slogan, "Pull, cut, spray and plow," and are attempting to prevent the growth of ragweed, one of the chief causes of hay fever.

TOWN RETAINS HERDER

EAST HAMPTON, Mass., (UP)—Though stray cows are rare in Easthampton now, the town still appoints field drivers to round them up. Now an honorary position, the job once was much sought after and was given to newlyweds so they could earn extra money.

A new 40,000-acre irrigation district is being formed in southern Tulare county.

The cows in the Monterey county association averaged 360 pounds of butterfat in 1939.

Stewart Says—

Rivalries Between States Seen Causing Them to Drift Apart

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

DO OUR 48 states show a tendency toward developing into 48 separate countries? If they do, we shan't admit that they've done so, of course. Nevertheless Senator C. O'Mahoney's so-called monopoly committee was solemnly warned by expert witnesses the other day that they do show such a tendency—in effect.

Frank Bane

By the way, it's quite incorrect to term that O'Mahoney outfit a "monopoly investigating committee." Its real purpose is to figure out, if it can, what's the matter, if anything, with our national economics in general—not to deal with monopolies in particular.

Anyhow, it's widely agreed that the United States, in the main, has been pretty prosperous, as compared with most of the rest of the world. And even high tariff protectionists admit that its prosperity probably has been largely due to the fact that it's been the most extensive single free trade area on earth.

State Tax Barriers

But in recent years many states have adopted policies of erecting tax barriers to exclude other states' goods from their various individual markets. They don't concede that they're protective tariffs (that would be federally unconstitutional) but that's what they amount to.

There's been some complaint about it, and a little less of it in the last year than previously. Still, it's quite prevalent yet.

It's a system against which a warning has just been sounded, before the O'Mahoney committee, by several first-rate authorities—notably Executive Secretary Frank Bane of the Council of State Governments and Dr. F. Eugene Melder, Clark university economist.

Senator O'Mahoney's committee is described as "temporary." Drs. Bane and Melder think it ought to be made "permanent."

They want internal tariffs abolished.

"Me First" Attitude

Dr. Bane goes farther than that. To be sure, internal tariffs are his principal grievance, but he points also to the inclination of each state to solve its local problems at the expense of all other states. For instance, state No. 1 reasons that it has to have help from the other 47 states. Each of the other 47 claims its share (or more than its fair share) from state No. 1.

Consequently, asserts Dr. Bane, individual states (trying to flim-flam other states) demand federal legislation of a properly purely state-wide character.

Moreover, they get it, by a process of swapping off votes on Capitol hill—thus getting federal legislation on purely intra-state issues.

On the opposite hand, the federal government, trying to regulate its payments to the various states, undertakes to tell said states what to do in connection with intra-state management—in violation of states' rights.

It's All Gummed Up

In this fashion, Dr. Bane's thesis is that federal and state relationships are getting all gummed up.

He not only wants Senator O'Mahoney's committee to straighten them out—he wants a permanent organization to KEEP them straightened out. He asks the O'Mahoney organization to sponsor such a body. The United States supreme court is supposed to attend to the job, but Dr. Bane's story is that the supreme court is not now either rapid or thorough enough to do it.

Dr. Melder's testimony implies that he agrees.

Of course, Drs. Bane and Melder don't maintain that the United States necessarily will split up into 48 separate countries; there may be some groups—eight or 10 or more of 'em.

And they won't formally separate themselves.

However, the two doctors foresee a gradual splitting up (not political immediately but economic) unless the current trend is counteracted.

The two doctors want that tendency fought.

Ohio River Crest Moves Into Indiana

AURORA, Ind., (UP) — Public schools were moved to higher land today after the swelling Ohio river waters pushed higher over their banks than they had moved at the crest of flood season last year.

A crest of 60 feet was expected to move down from Cincinnati, O., today after an all night rain. The rise was slow and about 50 families and 20 business men who were forced to leave were able to move out of the lowlands well in advance of the flood waters.

One hundred twenty-eight blocks in Bakersfield are under treatment for citrus white fly.

ALTHOUGH THIS IS a picture of a truck, the man and the woman in the picture are not "trucking." They are getting out of the way of the truck, and that's why the picture. Acme Breweries have equipped their trucks with a new safety feature, an alarm bell which rings continuously when the truck is in reverse gear, so that pedestrians may be warned when the vehicle is, for instance, backing out of an alley.

LOTUS NOTES

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Endriss Rasmusson who died in Sacramento on Tuesday evening, April 16, took place at the Coloma cemetery on Thursday afternoon of last week and was well attended from far and near. The graveside services conducted by Marguerite Parlor No. 12, N. D. G. W., of Placerville, were very nice as the deceased was an honored member for years past. Deceased leaves her husband, Fred A. Rasmusson, one nephew, Orin W. Lovett besides a number of cousins and friends to mourn her loss.

Chas. F. Hines and wife of here celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary on Tuesday last. The couple were married in Auburn, Indiana, on April 16, 1920, and came to our town from Vermont, May 4, 1932, nearly 8 years ago.

E. M. Blair, of Gold Hill, agricultural conservation man under B. E. Haslam, was in our town Tuesday looking over some of our pear growers' orchards.

We were taken by much surprise on Sunday by having two of our old-time friends who were born in our county, Henry De Leat, at Greenwood, and Will Peterson, near Coloma, calling on us. They came up from their Oakland homes Saturday to Greenwood where Henry spent the night with his sister, Frances De Leat, and Paul Ricci, coming to Lotus and Coloma Sunday where Peterson visited his old home and birthplace. Both gentlemen have lived in Oakland for some years past where Will has been employed by the Ory Dock Ship Co. for over 30 years.

The Gold Trail Grange card party held in Coloma Saturday night was well attended, 18 tables being on the floor. Placerville was well represented by Frank Scherrer, Will Wigglesworth, Mrs. Annie Yager, Cecil Barker and wife, Vernon Allen and wife, our editor, and many others from far and near. El Dorado was represented by our County Tax Collector, W. F. Truscott and wife. The writer was also present and took in the sights. Placerville folks always turn out to the card parties held here.

To please one of our life long lady friends we ask a correction: For some time past we have been writing Granite Hill in our items in place of Gold Hill. We wish to say that there is no Granite Hill in our county. This name was given Granite Hill some years ago by two former residents of that town both now deceased and we have in some way said Granite Hill, Nuf said, Ella; from now on we will mention Gold Hill, the place near where you were born.

We ask our whist card party players to not forget the Rebekah card party given by the lodge ladies at their hall in Coloma on Tuesday evening, May 7. We assume nice presents will be given the winners, together with a good spread at the close of the game. Come out and help the lodge ladies along.

Ed Sayers, our meter reader for the P. G. & E. Co., in Placerville, was in our town Thursday afternoon of last week checking up on all using the company's juice. Ed is two days earlier this month. He most always gets around by the 20th of each month—this time he called on the 18th. What's up, Ed, did you have a date somewhere?

Dr. Chas. Soracco was called out from his Placerville office on Wednesday of last week to care for Mrs. Noreen Peterson, who is one of the many on the sick list. At this writing the lady is doing very good and will soon be back to her self again.

Lloyd Fox who has been employed in a large apiary at Courtland, has resigned his duties and returned to Lotus. Lloyd has bees of his own here and it takes most of his time to care for them.

Among those who were callers at the Rasmusson home on Thursday afternoon of last week were Geo. A. Rasmusson and wife, from San Francisco, Orin W. Lovett and wife, also a nurse whose name we did not get, that cared for Mrs. Lizzie Rasmusson during her sickness; Miss Lena Phoeler and Fred Rasmusson, all of Sacramento; Gerald Rasmusson and wife, Mrs. Mary Rasmusson, and Miss Joe Beckman, from Placerville. All attended the funeral of Mrs. Lizzie Rasmusson and on their return called to see the Judge before going home.

John W. Hughes, manager, assisted by Louis Cochran, of the California Sound Pictures Company, of Oakland, gave one of their moving pictures and talkie shows at the community hall in Coloma Sunday night from now on for some time to come.

Our supervisor, Carl Niegel, was in our town Dednesday of last week looking over some of the roads in his district with his road foreman. George Wagner. They are doing a good piece of work on the road from the Four-Corners ranch to the old Gaylord Bridge on Weber Creek by taking out some of the bad bends in the road and making many other improvements. George has a crew of men assisting him in doing the work.

We have very little to say about the weather the past week only all week there were partly cloudy days. The temperature was from 70 to 82 degrees and no rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Barron were callers in Lotus on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Irma Lawyer and Mrs. Chas. Hines attended the card party in Placerville Tuesday evening given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Raeside, Master Gordon Raeside, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Volz and Miss Edith Eldridge, all of San Francisco, were week-end visitors at the Reaside home.

Ed Bowman dropped in to call on some of his Lotus friends before making his final trip to his new home at Payette, Idaho.

Mrs. Irma Lawyer was among those who took in the Rebekah card party at Placerville Thursday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Brugger, Miss Peleggam and Mr. Art Baerick, all of Modesto, were visiting the H. Bacchi family, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stevenson spent a couple of days visiting with Mrs. Lottie Galleher the past week.

Church services were held in Coloma on Sunday but we regret to note the absence of many of our neighbors. We trust that on the third Sunday in May, Mr. Barron will have the pleasure of seeing a larger crowd of Coloma and Lotus folks.

Henry Bacchi, Mrs. Irma Lawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rice and Chas. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. H. Reaside were among those who attended the whist party for the benefit of the Georgetown Fire Department.

A. H. Peterson was up from the southern part of the state visiting his wife who was ill the past few days.

Miss Lily Becker and the Misses Blanch and Mae MacGonnel, of San Francisco surprised the Rea family with a short visit Friday afternoon. They were en route to Sonora after a visit at Colfax and Truckee.

SALMON FALLS NEWS

Kenneth Burnett, of Folsom, visited friends here during the week. Kenneth is the proud owner of a new Studebaker sedan.

Fred Beneke, Myron Miller and Mrs. Will Miller were in Auburn last Friday. On the return home they called at the Ray Niegel home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burnett returned to their ranch here Monday. The Burnetts spent the winter in Escalon.

Mrs. Gertrude Pierce and daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. Harry Gillespie, of Denver, Colo., are guests of Alex Gillespie. Mrs. Pierce is the only daughter of Mr. Gillespie and this is her first visit with her father in ten years. The ladies were loud in their praise for California. Roses in Denver are $4 per dozen

YOUTH FLIES

CANTON, Mass., (UP) — America's smallest "man with wings" is the assertion of Robert Draper, 21, who is only 3 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 80 pounds, his parachute excepted. Draper started flying a year ago, passed a test for a private pilot's license and now owns his own airplane.

escaped the German air attacks. The prime objective of the Nazis is to break the Allied backbone by destruction of British naval power and in Berlin there have been many recent claims that great progress has been made in that direction. The official German news agency today said that 61 units of the Allied fleet had been put out of commission since the Norwegian warfare started.

These claims are partly denied in London and are regarded by neutrals as exaggerated but, in any event, the power of Marshall Hermann Goering's great air armada is now being tested and the newly built British aerial force is facing its most difficult task.

The British bombing fleets can make the round trip from England to Norway, Denmark and Germany and unload their high extensive raids of the war and bombing Germany's powerful air field on Sylt Island as well as other bases at Aalborg, Oslo and Stavanger.

the "British" had, apparently, won the thirty-two week attendance contest from the "French," by a fraction of a point. Although the "French" had been ahead by a narrow margin up to Tuesday night, their attendance fell down in the final meeting to a point that permitted the British to forge ahead.

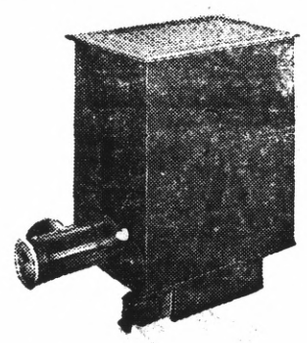

The results of the contest were hardly complimentary, since the club's attendance average was only fractionally in excess of 75 per cent.

Diamond For Month Of April
Burger Knows Gems . . .
DIAMOND—April birthstone from "Adamas," meaning the invincible; hardest stone known, is pure in carbon, even ancients recognized its hardness for cutting other stones; usually found in imperfect octahedral shape, cleaves readily, has more brilliance than any other stone, cut with 58 facets —figured mathematically to bring out maximum of its extreme brilliance and rare "fire" — single high refraction easily identified; Diamond does not show in X-ray pictures.
